

Talent is the natural ability to do something well. There are many kinds of talented people. The most famous may be talents in sports or music. Some may even be prodigies. Very talented autistic persons may also be very severely disabled. They are called savants.

Everyone has a talent. Often we have to look for it or recognise it. Some may be naturally friendly like Bryan. Ms Loy is patient and kind. My maid is good at gardening. Are these talents less important because less people know about them?
